TRANSLATION SERVICE DESCRIPTION

GLS provides comprehensive foreign language document translation services, which encompasses program/project management; certified document translation and editing services performed by highly qualified and experienced linguists; desktop publishing and copyediting. GLS draws upon the specific knowledge and skills of its linguists to perform legal, medical, technical, academic and other documents that have specialized, and often complex, terminology. We do this to ensure that translations are completely accurate, including diction. GLS' streamlined translation management process, which is informed by industry best practices (e.g., Project Management Institute, American Translators Association and ISO 17100 quality management principles), is enhanced by our customized and secure Translation Management System (TMS) which automates workflow and facilitates the meticulous tracking of all our translation projects.

Below is a summary of GLS' translation services offered:

1. GLS receives source files for translation from clients via email or FTP (often sent to a GLS general mailbox address that is then dispersed to our management team whose work is delineated by regions/languages). GLS confirms receipt of the translation request (normally within 2 hours, but no longer than 24 hours) and follows up with any clarifications related to the source file.
2. GLS' designated Project Manager enters the translation case into GLS' TMS and assigns the document to a seasoned GLS Translator who is a native speaker of the target language and who also has advanced proficiency in English. The Translator also possesses excellent desktop publishing skills and ensures that all translated products mirror the source document's formatting, including any tables, font types/sizes, placement of images, etc.
3. Once translated, the document is forwarded to a qualified Editor who is a native speaker of the target language with advanced proficiency in English. The Editor ensures that all diction is correct; including legal, medical or any other specific terminology; and further ensures that grammar, punctuation, spelling, format, etc. are correct.
4. Once the translation has been edited and properly formatted, it is returned to GLS' Project Manager who conducts a final quality check and ensures the translated product is correctly formatted, accurate and ready for final delivery to the client.
5. GLS' Project Manager certifies the file with GLS' custom stamp and provides a notarized certificate of translation, if desired. The Project Manager then returns the final translation to the appropriate client representative.
6. GLS' Project Manager remains available to promptly respond to any follow-up questions that clients may have regarding the submitted translation.
7. GLS also has as full-time Program Manager who oversees the work and manages the workload of our project management staff and who routinely meets with clients, produces contract status reports for major programs and prepares invoices and performs other administrative management tasks.

Audio/Video Transcription Services

GLS provides English and foreign language transcription services, which include project management, transcription (audio or video to written text) and editing/proofreading of transcribed content. GLS performs both verbatim and clean transcripts for clients, as requested. During the transcription process, GLS’ professional transcribers listen carefully to audio or video files in order to deliver accurate transcripts that include timestamps by audio minute and seconds. Transcripts are delivered in industry standard format or in accordance with clients’ specific style guides. GLS draws upon the specific knowledge and skills of its professional transcribers to perform legal, medical, technical, film and other transcripts that have specialized, and often complex, terminology. Our streamlined process for transcribing multimedia files is as follows:

1. GLS receives the source audio or video file from its client by secure FTP or via other file transfer tools, such as WeTransfer.
2. GLS confirms receipt of the transcription request (normally within 2 hours, but no longer than 24 hours) and follows up with any clarifications related to the source audio or multimedia file, including any distorted or unclear portions.
3. GLS’ designated Project Manager enters the transcription order into GLS’ proprietary management system and assigns the project to a seasoned GLS transcriber who is a native speaker of the target language and who also has advanced proficiency in English (i.e., for side-by-side transcription/translation tasks). The transcriber employs transcription tools, such as audio/video enhancers, transcription assistance software and foot pedals to perform the transcription project.
4. Once transcribed, the written transcript is forwarded to a qualified professional editor who is a native speaker of the target language with advanced proficiency in English. The editor ensures that all diction is correct; including legal, medical or any other specific terminology; and further ensures that grammar, punctuation, spelling, format, etc. are correct.
5. Once the transcript has been edited and properly formatted, it is returned to GLS’ Project Manager who conducts a final quality check and ensures the transcript is complete, correctly formatted, and ready for final delivery to the client.
6. GLS’ Project Manager remains available to promptly respond to any follow-up questions that clients may have regarding the submitted transcript.

Over-the-Phone Interpretation (OPI)

GLS provides pre-scheduled over-the-phone interpretation (OPI) services to USG and commercial clients in more than 150 languages. Telephonic interpretation services connect GLS’ linguists via phone (i.e., landline, cellphones, or VOIP) with clients who need assistance communicating with individuals who have Limited English Proficiency (LEP).

OPI is consecutive, which means the interpreter waits until the LEP speaker is finished to convert and render what was said from one language to another. These consecutive interpretation services involve a GLS Project Manager who identifies and assigns professional interpreters that align with each client’s request, including interpreters who possess legal, medical, labor-related, scientific and other backgrounds along with the terminology requisite to these fields.

GLS' interpreters possess college degrees, at least three years of professional interpreting experience, and intimate knowledge of the subjects which they are assigned to interpret.

Onsite Interpretation (OSI)

GLS provides onsite interpretation (OSI) and hybrid interpretation services for high-level conferences and meetings/seminars for USG and commercial clients as well as in-person consecutive interpretation services, such as court certified interpreters who render consecutive interpretation during court proceedings. We provide these services in more than 150 foreign languages.

Simultaneous interpretation services require GLS' interpreters to interpret in real-time while the original speaker is speaking. There are no pauses in conversation. This type of interpretation is mostly used for events where multiple languages are interpreted at the same time or for pre-scripted broadcasts. When OSI services are requested for client conferences, GLS engages its relationships with trusted equipment vendors to provide logistics, audiovisual equipment and technical support for these events, including technicians who set-up equipment (e.g., booths, microphones, screens, etc.), troubleshoot equipment and sound/visuals during events, and tear-down/remove equipment at the end of each event.

GLS' Director of Interpretation, or a designated Project Manager, serves as an interpretation event manager for OSI assignments, which includes extensive coordination between our clients and interpreters, equipment vendors and technicians to ensure GLS' interpreters are able to seamlessly deliver interpretation services for each conference, meeting, etc.

Moreover, GLS' Director of Interpretation Services (or designee) identifies and assigns professional interpreters that align with each client's specific request, including interpreters who possess legal, medical, labor-related, scientific and other backgrounds along with the terminology requisite to these fields. GLS' interpreters possess college degrees, at least three years of professional interpreting experience, and intimate knowledge of the subjects which they are assigned to interpret. They also possess decorum and the communication skills needed to effectively perform these services at high-level, in-person events.

Virtual Remote Interpretation (VRI)

GLS provides virtual remote interpretation (VRI) services via platforms such as MS Teams, Zoom, etc. in over 150 foreign languages. We are adept at providing multi-channel, multi-lingual conference and simultaneous interpretation services as well as consecutive VRI in settings like federal and local courts.

Simultaneous VRI requires GLS' interpreters to interpret in real-time while the original speaker is speaking. There are no pauses in conversation. This type of interpretation is mostly used for events where multiple languages are interpreted at the same time or for pre-recorded webinars. GLS' Director of Interpretation, or a designated GLS Project Manager, serves as an interpretation event coordinator and performs quality control for VRI conferences and meetings, which involves extensive coordination between our clients and interpreters to ensure GLS' interpreters are able to seamlessly deliver interpretation services.

Moreover, GLS' Project Manager identifies and assigns professional interpreters that align with each client's specific request, including interpreters who possess legal, medical, labor-related, scientific and other backgrounds along with the terminology requisite to these fields. GLS' interpreters possess college degrees, at least three years of professional interpreting experience, and intimate knowledge of the subjects which they are assigned to interpret.

Voiceover Services

GLS provides professional voiceover services in foreign languages. We follow a streamlined process that includes the following steps:

1. GLS' Project Manager receives a video in English, such as a webinar or eLearning video, with a voiceover request. This request includes the target language(s) desired for the voiceover(s).
2. GLS transcribes the video in the source language (usually English transcript) and then translates the transcript into the target language, or languages, using a professional transcriber/translator and editor. The transcript contains timestamps by minutes/seconds of audio.
3. GLS' voiceover talent who has advanced reading/speaking proficiency in the target language records a professional reading of the transcript that is timed with the source speaker/video; this recording is produced in a soundproof recording studio without background noise or other distractions.
4. Using audiovisual equipment/editing software, a GLS technician overlays the recorded voice over, syncing it with the timing of the original speaker/video, which ensures the voiceover is paced with the original presenter.
5. GLS' Project Manager performs a QC check of the final video with voiceover to ensure the timing and quality of the video/sound is satisfactory.

Subtitling Services

GLS provides foreign language subtitling services to USG and commercial clients. We have provided subtitles for academic lectures, webinars, and documentary films, etc. GLS follows a proven process for production and implementation of subtitles, to include the following steps:

1. GLS' Project Manager receives a video and request for subtitles in specific target languages. The Project Manager reviews the source video for audio/visual quality, sequential time codes, etc.
2. GLS' Project Manager assigns a professional transcriber/editor to transcribe the source video content (i.e., English or other source languages). Once the audio is transcribed into English, the transcript is assigned to professional translators/editors in each requested target language. Assigned linguists follow industry standards, including GLS' ISO 17100:2015, and client style guides when translating and editing video transcripts.
3. Translated subtitles are localized so that they include cultural nuances and terms that will resonate with and be understood by target audiences, or viewers.
4. Completed (translated) subtitles are output in SRT file format so that GLS' technicians can properly "burn in" subtitles in each target language, syncing the subtitles of each target language to the timing of the original video's content/timing.
5. GLS' technicians utilize video editing software and state-of-the-art equipment to render subtitles in the original video. Subtitles be rendered so that they are always visible or embedded in the video so that they are only visible when selected in the player. Our experienced technicians can transcode source video to any specifications required.
