Overview

VDI manufactures proprietary virtual driver training systems (i.e. “driving simulators”). VDI “virtual trainers” are comprised of both hardware and software components that offer a wide range of training options. The technology has been in use since 2004 in secondary schools, military bases, foundations and corporations with over 1,100 deployed virtual trainers throughout the world, though predominantly in the U.S.

The underlying technologies used by VDI’s interactive virtual training systems stem from decades of expertise that provided military training solutions using simulation. As an expert in virtual training, custom computing solutions and driver improvement, VDI bundles these skills into its core competency of safer driving through simulation training.
