Company Profile – Guard Operations

Guardian Security Systems, Inc. (Guardian Security) has been in business in the State of Alaska providing professional security services since 1974. We are a wholly owned and operated Alaskan security company offering complete security services including professional security officers, guard patrol services, money transport and ATM services, fire and burglar alarm systems and monitoring, card access control systems, and global positioning satellite tracking and monitoring services for customers throughout the State of Alaska.

The management strength of Guardian Security is a key factor to our success in the guard industry. In addition to training, support and motivation from our management team, Guardian Security assigns a post supervisor to every guard post with three or more security officers. The post supervisor is paid slightly more to provide leadership and direction at the location and works directly with the management team. This insures that our customers are receiving the highest quality of service, and our employees are receiving the full support of our organization. Guardian Security currently has twelve Post/Site Supervisors, and three Watch Commanders providing additional support and commitment to our officers, and our valued customers. Currently Guardian Security has an average of 205 employees per month at its six locations in Anchorage, Fairbanks, Wasilla, Kenai, Juneau and Ketchikan.

Guardian Security prides itself on our ability to recruit, develop and retain the most qualified security officers in the Alaska market. We provide a great deal of personal attention and support to all of our officers, recognizing the importance of communication, training and accessibility to management for the development and retention of quality officers. We both motivate our employees and further enhance our value and ability to respond to our customers' needs by providing extensive cross training of our officers at various locations in an operational area. These practices result in a strong continuity of professional quality security services for our valued customers.

Ned Hahn is the founder of Guardian Security and has provided hands-on commitment and leadership to the organization throughout its twenty – nine year Alaska history.

Scott Campbell joined the company in early 2002; he brings twenty-nine years of law enforcement experience ranging from Officer to Chief of Police to the organization. His experience as a Trooper and Trooper Supervisor and his years as the Chief of Police with the North Slope Borough have prepared him in managing remote operations in this state. Scott's accomplishments include being a Field Training Officer Instructor, Police Officer of the Year (1989), appointment to the Alaska Police Standards Council (1996), Chairman of the Alaska Police Standards Council (1998), in addition to receiving a variety of certificates in police work over the years. Scott's extensive management experience rounds out our guard management team.

Terry Valeu has been with Guardian Security since August of 1999, and is a retired law enforcement professional with 15 years of increasingly responsible positions in law enforcement, emergency management, critical incident management and volunteer management with the San Diego, California Police Department. Terry Valeu was the Operations and Response Officer of the Critical Incident Management Unit of the San Diego Police Department from 1995 to 1999, and the Operations and Response Officer of the City of San Diego Office of Emergency Management from 1989 to 1995. He is certified by the State of California as an Instructor of Incident Command / On Scene Commander and Instructor of Standardized Emergency Management Systems.

Guardian Security has the largest number of commercial customers for security guard services in the state of Alaska. Our leadership in the market is a direct result of our successful focus on customer service and superior quality.
