Walter E. Best

A family history of innovative security products, beginning with the small format interchangeable core.

I started Marshall Best Security Corporation in 2004 in order to continue a long family tradition of providing high quality locking products with unequaled customer service at competitive prices. The innovative spirit that enabled my grandfather Frank Best to invent the Small Format Interchangeable Core back in 1924 is still alive at MBS today.

Our focus is upon excelling at that which my family understood was the vital element for success; competent, gracious customer service. Even the smallest order receives the same high level of attention and care as the largest orders. We purposefully listen to each client's unique situation and help them find the correct solution to their locking security requirements.

These fundamentally essential, but often forgotten principles, taught to me by my father, Walter E. Best, guided me when I founded this company and they continue to guide all of us here at MBS in every decision we make and every action we take. The Small Format Interchangeable Core may be the heart of our locks, but customer service is the heart of my business.
