Language training has long been a subject of controversy in the industry, primarily because of cultural issues. Having researched and identified a viable solution to this situation, ALC now offers a variety of Immersion and Isolation Immersion (Isomersion) programs (many of them specifically tailored to the Armed Forces). This approach affords students a new dimension in language training: foreign language cross-culturalization. These specifically tailored programs, allow students to become completely immersed into foreign languages and cultures with particular emphasis on the every-day culture of the target language and location.

At the present time, ALC offers Immersion and Isomersion intensive language and cross-culturalization programs. In general terms, these two types of training are applied to in-country intensive language and cultural classes, with particular emphasis on the specific curricula that ALC prepares according to the location, circumstances and potential regional dialects. Although both programs are closely related, Isomersion programs are shorter in duration, far more intensive, and conducted in an accessible isolated environment. This type of immersion training is created in non-indigenous environments. In essence, students and instructors are sequestered in an isolated environment that yields fewer distractions, while increasing retention and participation. Isomersion training incorporates more hours per week of classroom instruction than in country, or immersion programs. Likewise, it adds a more in-depth, cultural dimension to the training curriculum. Student-teacher ratio for Isomersion programs is maintained at no more than ten to one. Both programs can be tailored to students (whether DLPT or ILR) at all levels of proficiency and ability. Because of its intensity, Isomersion programs have proven to be very effective for students with no background in the target language or culture.

ALC's programs include traditional classroom instruction, practical applications, cultural excursions, and a myriad of lodging scenarios, designed to enhance the training program. In addition to language instruction, students embark on weekend field trips to various locations throughout the host nation. These trips generally include sites or areas of cultural and historical significance as well as recreation. Unlike ordinary language training, ALC's extensive experience and expertise overseas, particularly as it pertains to cross-culturalization training, also furnishes a variety of audiovisual aides such as: follow-up, refresher courses on VHS; and follow-up, refresher courses on multi-lingual DVD (up to eight language tracks).

ALC's Immersion and Isomersion curriculum for basic speakers focuses on rapid expansion of colloquial usage with professional and technical or career-related vocabulary. Classroom and field instruction places emphasis on task oriented learning and specific applications (such as mission-related applications, in the case of the Armed Forces.) Along these lines, students rehearse, act, and apply the language abilities that will be required for them to function effectively in their professional capacities. As an example, ALC's Arabic Language and Studies Program encompass some of the following main areas of study (depending on the desired level of proficiency):

1. Elementary Arabic
2. Colloquial Arabic
3. Intermediate Arabic
4. Modern Arabic
5. Advanced Arabic
6. The Qur'an

7. Introduction to Hadith
8. Brief History of Arabic Languages
9. Brief History of Arabic Literature
10. Central Asian Culture and Society
11. Islamic Philosophy and Theology
12. Islam in Central Asia
13. Cross-culturalization in Southwest Asia

ALC's Immersion and Isomersion Programs have been designed to further language proficiency and develop a significantly greater understanding of a given region. The company's experience in languages and linguistics (translation, interpretation, language training, and cross-culturalization) in Southwest Asia, affords ALC an invaluable and unparalleled opportunity to offer more than just language training. It allows ALC to offers its clients the unparalleled advantage of first-hand knowledge, experience, and expertise in the target region, backed by an unparalleled record of performance.

LABOR CATEGORY DESCRIPTIONS

INTERCEPTION

ALC's specialists are capable of listening to and reading foreign language communications, lawfully intercepted, and performing immediate verbal summaries, then subsequent written or typed summaries, into the English language. Further to this, ALC's interceptors provide a typed, concise and accurate synopsis of an oral or written communications intercept that contains the identity of the speakers or correspondents, and all locations and events mentioned that pertain to the subject of the communication. ALC believes that here is precisely where a combination of translation, typing, and dialect analysis will converge to provide clients with an invaluable tool in expediting the translation and transmission of a message from a foreign language into English. ALC's translators (tested for language ability as well as typing skills) will be able to work in conjunction with the transcribers and interpreters in order to expedite production and assist with any emergencies and/or imponderables that may arise during the performance of the contract.

TRANSCRIPTION

ALC's specialists are capable of rendering the spoken word of a language into the written form of the same language, then save the result on a computer disc and/or printed format. This particular service also encompasses the use of individuals with translation skills who are also technically capable of handling transcription equipment and can render a productive ration of approximately 3 to 1 in turnaround speed. The individuals selected for this function are sufficiently skilled to identify the foreign language that falls outside of the realm of their knowledge and "tag" the sections or "counter" that corresponds to a language that it is not theirs, so that the Production Manager or Site Manager can immediately assign it to another transcriber/translator. The advantage of using transcribers with translation skills and experience may serve to minimize time consumption, alleviate the possibility of extraordinary hours, and provide coverage in case of imponderables.

LIAISON SUPPORT AND ANALYSTS

These specialists have a Masters Degree from an accredited institution in International Politics, Area Studies, Political Science or History and 5 years experience in national level counterintelligence, intelligence or terrorism analysis. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution in International Politics, Area Studies, Political Science or History plus 10 years terrorism analytical experience may substitute for a master's. The terrorism analyst should have an extensive working knowledge of the organizations, objectives, and modus operandi of Southwest Asia; North Africa; Turkey; Sub-Saharan Africa; Central and South America; East Asia/Pacific and European terrorist groups and their surrogates. These specialists have practical experience in automated data processing operation and mastery of English spelling, grammar, and usage as suitable for the preparation and review of finished terrorism reports and briefings, as well as a second foreign language. In addition, they have detailed knowledge of terrorism research methodologies and concepts including experience in performing investigative and operations analysis. These analysts are cognizant of current internal and external security problems and vulnerabilities affecting resources. These positions require a Top Secret security clearance as well as SCI access authorization due to the need for frequent handling of sensitive compartment information. These individuals also have the ability to assimilate existing regulations, instructions, pamphlets, standing operating procedures and other regulatory guidance pertinent to finished counterintelligence production.

LINGUISTIC ENGINEERS

ALC's linguistic engineers are Microsoft Certified Systems Engineers with a minimum of five years of experience in the field of foreign language network security, interception, firewall, and secured communications. In addition to the above, ALC's certified systems engineers perform administration of MS WIN 2000 Professional (including language and interception modules); NT Systems; implementing and administering MS WIN 2000 and NT Network infrastructure for the purpose of running secured communications or interceptions; implementing and administering MS WIN and NT directory infrastructure; designing MS WIN 2000 and NT Network infrastructure for secured communications and interference avoidance; implementing and supporting Microsoft Internet Explorer 5.0 or above, particularly for secured communications and interception in multiple foreign languages; as well as migrating from Microsoft NT to Windows 2000 and Vice Versa.

ALC will provide these support services to agencies by furnishing qualified individuals with sufficient knowledge of foreign languages so as to also provide oral multilingual Interpretation (Simultaneous and/or Consecutive) services for meetings, conferences, seminars, litigation proceedings, briefings, training, escort and other forums of voice communication requirements from a source language in the target language. Sign Language is included. Services shall be performed by professional and experienced interpreters that possess demonstrated proficiency levels that range from the ability to speak the language with sufficient structural accuracy and vocabulary, to participate effectively in most formal and informal conversations on practical, social and professional topics at a minimum. The maximum proficiency level will demonstrate that of a highly articulate well-educated native speaker which reflects the cultural standards of the country where the language is natively spoken.

The requesting agency will specify in the Task Order, the language requirement, location, dates and times and any required certifications or accreditation necessary. Agency testing may be required to determine qualified proficiency levels for some tasks. The contractor shall provide consultation and planning assistance to requesting agencies for conference interpretation services to determine interpretation team requirements and equipment requirements, when necessary. Incidental items may include equipment requirements. The contractor will be required to confirm availability and acceptance of specified tasks for scheduling purposes.
