Corporate Overview

Metropolitan Interpreters and Translators Inc., was established in 1990 as a veteran-owned business participating in the Small Business Administration's (SBA) Mentoring Program. Since our inception, we have been meeting the interpretation, translation and transcription needs of the United States Government especially the State and Federal law enforcement community.

As one of the first translation companies on the General Services Administration (GSA) Federal Supply Schedule, Metropolitan was awarded a twenty million dollar contract for translation and interpretation services. Under that contract, we expanded our current client base and created new relationships with federal agencies such as the U.S. Attorney's Office, U.S. Department of Justice Anti-Trust Division, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the U.S. Secret Service. Our schedule price list covers transcription, translation and interpretation services as well as Title III staffing and management services.

Today, as large business with offices from coast to coast we are one of the Department of Justice's (DOJ) most experienced contractors for Title III support services as well as translation and transcription production. Our rapid response to DOJ's ever growing demand for foreign language assistance has earned us over nationwide contracts worth in excess of $200 million dollars, with the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), formerly the U.S. Customs Service.

Metropolitan's operates three strategic locations from which we service the federal law enforcement community and several other regional locations from which we supplement our recruitment efforts from. Our headquarters which is based in the center of New York City, is the home of our main transcription center. Our Miami location is located in the same complex as many of our law enforcement clients and is key to supporting the southern U.S. and the Caribbean and is home to another Metropolitan secure transcription center.

Our Los Angeles office manages and supports the largest DEA Title III support contract in the country, with over 200 full time, DOJ cleared linguists we support the West Coast of the United States and the Pacific Islands. It also is home to our newest state of the art transcription center. Our operation not only meets and exceeds the requirements of DOJ and DHS but also proposes a unique, Cost Saving and Time Savings solution to today's rapidly changing translation assistance requests.

General Translation Services

Metropolitan understands the importance of providing reliable, high quality service at a reasonable and competitive price, thus offering the government the best overall value for their contracting dollar.

With a staff of full time translators in, Metropolitan provides document translation services from and to over 100 foreign languages for government and private clients.

We translate:

- Manuals
- Medical Records
- Books
- Insurance claims
- Websites
- Training Materials
- Legal documents
- General correspondence
- Technical data

Our translators are accredited, native speaking professionals, with the language skills meet our high standards. To assist our linguists all three maintain extensive onsite reference libraries with specialized dictionaries and reference books in a variety of topics and languages. In addition, through our relationship with the United Nations (UN) we have access to the UN translation library as well as various research and reference services available on the internet.

To ensure confidentiality and to protect information all three of Metropolitan's offices are linked together via secure intranet that utilizes high-speed network servers to transfer data between locations. This allows us to direct translation projects to the office that has the translation team best suited for the project.

Transcription / Translation Services

Our New York City transcription/translation center has hosted hundreds of cases, some high profile, some not. In all cases the work performed by Metropolitan has aided the government in securing a successful outcome while always preserving the integrity of the investigation.

To ensure the integrity of each investigation, Metropolitan has several security measures in place. First and foremost, we have a secure work area with individual work stations within our office. Entry into the work area is restricted to individuals that hold either a current DEA or FBI security clearance.

Our transcription center can be configured to accommodate the individual confidentiality of multiple cases with each transcriber/translator working in their own enclosed workstation. Each employee is assigned a unique access ID for the network, this allows them to only access their own working directory. Each workstation is connected via a closed network, which restricts any file from being copied onto a disk or e-mailed outside the center by any of the translators. Supervisors access individual employee directories at anytime and monitor employee production and move the file at the completion of work and send it to Quality Assurance and then onto the client.

Our Miami office was built to the same security standards as the New York office and it follows the same security procedures. The office has individual transcription/translation stations, and in addition, has a secure room within the transcription/translation center that can isolate a group of transcribers/translators for a sensitive project.

Both the New York and Miami offices have fireproof safes to store all source material. Only supervisors at both locations can open these safes which are monitored by video at all times. As an added security measure, we activate an alarm system at night that is connected to a central station monitoring company.

Onsite Sound Lab

Metropolitan has an onsite sound lab in the New York office. This state of the art lab contains the latest enhancing equipment and software capable of transferring audio from one format to another while filtering out background noise. Through the use of high-end computerized recording systems, Metropolitan can enhance the quality of any digital or analog recording, rendering it more audible and easier to work with.

Document Translation Services

Document translation services for law enforcement agencies require that the translators not only be native speaking professionals who meet our strict language accreditation standards, but they must also satisfy the security clearance requirements of the United States Department of Justice.

All of our staff translators have been cleared by the DEA or the FBI to do work at our offices or within the governments secure space. The flexibility of our translators to work at the government site when requested is important since often the material to be translated may not be removed from the site.

Metropolitan not only supports these projects with the translators but very often can provide the specialized dictionaries, reference material and other tools necessary to ensure the best possible translation for the client. Metropolitan can translate in over 100 languages the following:

- Banking/finance reports and statements
- Court affidavits/Jail records
- Police reports/investigation reports
- Officer training materials
- General correspondence
- Sales and marketing material
- Contracts, agreements and property deeds
- Bills of sale/shipping records
- Electronic Data
- Manuals

Metropolitan also employs part time translators to supplement our permanent staff when the task allows. These translators are held to the same language accreditation standards as our full time employees and when requested must adhere to the same security procedures which at a minimum, require the translator to sign a non disclosure agreement to ensure the clients' confidentiality at all times.

Quality Assurance

As a service dealing primarily with law enforcement agencies, Metropolitan is required to produce a finished product that is used as exhibits or evidence in criminal proceedings. Whether for the DEA, FBI, U.S. Customs or the U.S. Attorney's Office our linguists and the translations they produce have been tried, tested and successfully accepted within the courts for over ten years.

Additionally, since all of Metropolitan's facilities are secure and our staff translators hold a valid security clearance from the U.S. Department of Justice, we are well trained in safeguarding information and security. Translators only have access to information related to the project they are working on.

No matter who the client is, Metropolitan has many quality assurance steps in place to ensure the highest quality product to the Government. We start with the Project Managers:

A Project Manager is assigned to every ongoing project that Metropolitan is working on. This Project Manager is in control of the translation project from the start of the job until the completion of all the tasks.

The Project Manager is responsible for putting together the glossary and any other reference material the translators may need. The Project Manager assists, checks and validates all the work produced by the translation team working on that project. He or she is also responsible for ensuring that the project is on time and within the cost estimate.

Project Managers report directly to our Translation Center Operations Manager (T-COM) who holds daily meetings with the Project Managers to assess production levels, costs, quality assurance and deadlines of each ongoing project. The Operations Manager will access the status of the project and convey any new information, updates or changes from the client to the Project Managers and the translation team when necessary.

Before returning the project to the client, the T-COM will assign a proofreader/editor to the finished project for one last quality assurance check.

As a final step, the T-COM reviews all finished products and ensures that all original material is returned to the client and any waste material is properly destroyed.

Foreign Language Monitors

One of the most requested services under the law enforcement category is providing Monitors/ Interceptors for Title III investigations. Metropolitan is a leader in this field with a full time staff of DEA and FBI cleared linguists (a flying squad) in over twenty different languages, available to travel on twenty-four hours notice. These monitors are available to work on Title III investigations that involve foreign languages as well as English. Our “Flying Squad” can work in any city in the U.S. for thirty, sixty or ninety days at a time.

We recruit, hire and train only native speakers with knowledge of colloquial expressions and regional slang. This offers the law enforcement agency the added advantage of understanding the culture and unique regionalisms that often are a key ingredient in any foreign language investigation.

General Interpretation Services

On a daily basis, Metropolitan provides consecutive and simultaneous interpreters to federal agencies as well as private corporations. Our interpreters assist in meetings, conventions, legal proceedings, criminal investigations and the general day to day operation of our government. We also provide consecutive and simultaneous interpreters to the television networks for live broadcasts, interviews and news relay.

The task of interpretation has varied requirements and skill levels depending upon the assignment. At a minimum, Metropolitan requires that all interpreters have the ability to speak the language with sufficient structural accuracy and vocabulary to participate effectively in most formal and informal conversations on practical, social and professional topics.

More experienced and seasoned interpreters are required to demonstrate a skill level of conversation equal to a highly articulate well-educated native speaker, which reflects the cultural standards of the country where the language is natively spoken. Many of Metropolitan’s interpreters are also state and/or federally court certified, State Department Certified, DLI certified or UN accredited and/or who are accredited members of professional interpretation associations such as The American Association of Language Specialist (TAALS), National Association of Judicial Interpreters (NAJIT) and the Association International des Interprètes de Conférence (AIIC).

To ensure that our interpreters meet our skill requirements and our client's standards, Metropolitan utilizes an oral proficiency exam administered by an independent testing company, Language Testing International (LTI). LTI is an approved testing company for the U.S. Department of Justice as well as other federal agencies. Metropolitan has been utilizing LTI as their primary testing company in all languages for the past several years.

Metropolitan is a corporate member of the National Association of Judicial Interpreters (NAJIT) and we comply with all rules, regulations and standards set by the International Association of Conference Interpreters (AIIC). Metropolitan utilizes SONY and WILLIAMS brand conference equipment and upon request we can provide equipment for groups of 10 to 1000 in up to twenty languages simultaneously. We offer wireless headsets and the secure hard-wired delegate units along with our custom designed soundproof interpretation booths.

Metropolitan can provide any consulting and planning assistance to the requesting government agency as is often required when dealing with simultaneous interpreters and conference equipment.

Interpretation Services for Law Enforcement

Metropolitan offers a customized consecutive interpretation program for law enforcement and prosecuting agencies in need of this service on a regular basis. For Example: some United States Attorney's offices require consecutive interpreters on a daily basis in about five or six different languages, usually on short notice.

These interpreters assist with one-on-one meetings between the government and the defendants or cooperating witnesses/confidential sources.

Upon meeting with the law enforcement or prosecuting agency, Metropolitan will ascertain the interpretation needs and set up a program that offers a Rapid Response to needs of that client.

In the above example, Metropolitan arranged a meeting with the offices in need of the service and analyzed their interpretation needs. After that meeting we selected the interpreters best suited for that project and then we set up a schedule whereby they check in with their Metropolitan representative every two hours during the business day to secure their next assignment.

This allows Metropolitan to offer our client a Rapid Response in those high demand languages on short notice. It also offers the client a pool of interpreters familiar with the procedures and needs of that client while offering the actual user of the service a familiar face to work with.

Additionally, Metropolitan has designed systems and procedures that first notify the on within the organization that an interpreter has been requested by a representative of that organization and what the estimated cost of that service will be. This is vital in a multi-user environment where requests for services are made with a certain amount of urgency.

One of our representatives will be glad to set up a meeting to access your interpretation needs and show you how Metropolitan can assist your organization under our GSA schedule.
