Graves Fowler Creative is an award-winning marketing communications firm founded in 1984 and located in Gaithersburg, Maryland, near Washington, DC. From the beginning, we have focused much of our talent and energy on work for government agencies and not-for-profit clients. Today our capabilities have evolved from graphic design into a full complement of social marketing services.

Graves Fowler serves a host of corporate, government and not-for-profit clients. We offer market research; commercial art and graphic design services; public awareness and education support; exhibit design and conference services; photography and video; and web site design and maintenance.

Creating successful communications requires three things:

- Strategy and Research
  Setting the stage for effective communications requires a thorough understanding of our clients’ history, brand equity, market competition and perceived strengths (and weaknesses) among target audiences. With this internal and external look at your organization, we define the challenge clearly and set reachable, strategic goals for the work.

- Imagination
  We bring our best thinking to each project we undertake. That involves working closely with our clients to hear and understand their vision, and then reaching beyond expectations to create truly memorable solutions.

- Craftsmanship
  Ideas are only as good as their execution. At Graves Fowler our team has depth of experience that ensures every deliverable will be of the highest quality. Our team is made up of degreed professionals with years of real-world experience.

- Careful Management
  Attentive project management, a sophisticated tracking system and wise budget allocations are key elements to successful management overall. Our clients can expect proactive problem-solving and prompt responses to any questions that may arise.

Graves Fowler Creative produces attention-getting, effective marketing communications that have won many national awards. Our work speaks for itself. What is less apparent is the behind-the-scenes relationship-building that makes this success possible. We are known as team players and work best in environments where we can operate as an integral part of the organization we are serving. Whatever the assignment, we become an enthusiastic, creative and reliable part of the team.
